

The Sons of the Full Moon

The Sons of the Full Moon perform throughout the Southeast at Festivals and dances, and performed at Gypsy Meltdown 2011
They perform high-energy original tunes, and traditional Irish and American music.

Dennis Spring, fiddle/violin, has done many recording studio sessions.
He has performed with nationally-known artists, such as Harry Connick, Jr., Benny Goodman, Smokey Robinson, Dionne Warwick, Doc Severinson, Chet Atkins, Emmy Lou Harris, and The Moody Blues.

Tim Mace has been a singer-songwriter around the Carolinas for 30 years.
He has a solo album to his credit and has opened for Doc Watson several times.
He plays several mandolins which he designed and built.

Buddy McManus, former guitarist with the Ruffians, has composed over 500 musical works, and creates the rhythmic groove for the band.

Sarah Huskey plays clarinet, sax and pennywhistle. She joined the band in the Autumn of 2010 and adds both fire to the hard-driving tunes, and water to the smooth waltzes.

James Wilson plays many percussion instruments and drives dancers into frenzy.
